The 19th Annual Graduate Student Conference of the College of Languages, Linguistics & Literature will be held on Saturday, April 18, at 9:00 AM. Titled “In a Word,” the conference will feature the work of graduate students from the College of LLL highlighting the ways in which words shape our lives, from morphosyntax to post-colonial theory to poetry. This event offers a space for students to present their research and creativity, and offer their insights and understanding to the local global community. This year, conference topics include:

- Teaching and learning about languages and literature
- Multilingual communities and culture
- Literary theory and criticism
- Language contact, translinguaging, and/or code-switching
- Language documentation and conservation
- Language ideology, including language policy and planning
- Language and identity
- And much more. Join us for this annual event!

Visit the conference website for more information at: www.lll.hawaii.edu/lllconference/

Abstract submission DEADLINE EXTENDED! New deadline: Sunday, March 15, 11:59 p.m.
Submit your abstract at: www.jotform.us/form/50376960116152

2015 LLL Conference Organizing Committee:
Programming Co-Chairs: Samuel Aguirre (MA candidate, SLS) and Emily Gazda (MA candidate, SLS)
Communications Co-Chair: Andrew Rouse (MA candidate, SLS)
Finance and Registration Co-Chairs: Kristyn Martin (PhD candidate, EALL) and Lenisi Pasi (PhD candidate, English)
Volunteer and Logistics Co-Chairs: Scott Ka’alele (PhD candidate, English) and Norman Thompson (PhD candidate, English)

Conference refreshments will be generously provided by the Colleges of Arts & Sciences Alumni Association.